

Discovering Medieval

Discovering Medieval are a group of professional historical enthusiasts who want to share their passion for history with others. We bring the medieval era to life in a fun, colourful and educational manner.

We transport you back - back to a time far removed from the present. By demonstration and interactive teaching, we offer a glimpse at the many aspects of medieval life. We can cover arms and armour, archery, medicine, religion, food, dress, crafts and everyday social life.

Schools

At Discovering Medieval we understand the difficulties of teaching history to children and making it exciting. Imagine dressing pupils in medieval costume - arming them as a knight, recruiting them as a surgeon's apprentice, or taking part in a lord or peasants meal. For schools we can talk about a range of subjects to compliment all key stages and are equally at home in a school hall or set up as a living history encampment on your school field.

Museums & Historical sites

We can offer an interactive living history experience for your visitors with the sights, sounds and smells of the medieval period. All the clothing and equipment that we display and the information we give is as historically accurate as possible. From the soldiers tent, to the surgeon's bench, we offer a variety of medieval scenarios and bring the medieval world to life in any venue.

Fetes & Fayres

We can bring a dash of colour and excitement to your fete or fayre. From battling knights to the horrors of the medieval surgeon. We believe the best way to bring history to life is to immerse the audience in it - up to their neck!
